Health Center Election Results

The following eight community residents were elected to serve on the Potrero Hill Health Advisory Council:

Daniel Berman holds a Ph. D. from Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. For the last three years he has served as the Director for the Occupational Health Project on the Medical Committee for Human Rights. He was very instrumental in organizing a free health clinic in St. Louis and is currently writing a book entitled "Death On The Job," which deals with the politics of occupational safety and health in the United States.

Oney Harper, who has lived on the hill for 10 years, believes that the primary urgency is to inform the residents of the health services that are available. Harper would like to see a program designed for youth physical fitness and more sanitary health conditions within the community.

Edna Holman, mother of two children, has lived in the community for the last 18 years. She is a member of the PTA Mother's Club, and the Potrero Hill Tenant's Association. She has a strong interest in seeing adequate health care provided for the young.

Edward Mendez has lived on the hill for the last 20 years. He is very concerned with nutrition and would like to become involved in nutritional education for the community.

Sara Jean Studebaker has a M. A. degree in education for economically handicapped children. She would like to see the community put first in the plans and operations of the Health Center and the best rooms, with views, used as waiting areas, for childcare, and for community and staff gatherings.

Eurydice Uhrman is an accountant, and has one daughter. She is most interested in preventative medicine and programs that encourage the building of good health, and in the newer concepts of honesty and open procedures with patients.

Cleo Wallace, mother of two daughters, is the Commissioner of the Housing Authority, Chairperson for the Western Region of the National Tenants Association and is on the Board of Directors of E.O.C. Ms. Wallace would like to see policies and procedures that, when implemented, would lead to a more effective health care delivery.

George Whitmore is the father of two children, and a member of the Potrero Hill Citizen's Improvement Association. He feels that the primary problems in the community are drugs and alcoholism, and believes that a team approach of professional people and community residents, working together, can achieve some success in this area.

Community Congress

A Community Congress, the first of its kind, is scheduled in San Francisco for June 7-8 at Lone Mountain College. The primary purpose of the Community Congress is to bring together grass-roots, community organizations and concerned individuals in the city to discuss the issues that are of greatest concern and to move together in unified action to deal with those issues.

It is hoped that a people's program for political action will be developed that will pinpoint the priorities, principles and demands that will best mobilize energy in behalf of fundamental political, economic, and social change.

Community groups and individuals are urged to take part in the planning of the Congress as well as taking part in the coalitions that are underway. If anyone from Potrero Hill is interested, call 989-6095, ext. 28 for further information.

Go For Ballots

In March, a coalition of community and working people won a major concession from the Board of Supervisors when the Board allocated $25,000 for public funding of voter registration. How community people will be able to use these funds is a battle still to be won.

The coalition met with Supervisor Mendelssohn, who agreed to sponsor the necessary legislation. An absolute bottom line budget of $25,000 was established, with 35¢ to be paid for each registration. This package was presented to and approved by the Governmental Services committee of the Board of Supervisors. Upon presentation of the full Board, it was passed on March 10. The resolution, as approved, calls for an on-going city-wide program of voter registration, including payment of 35¢ per registration.

A community victory has been achieved. However, the battle is not yet completely won. The Registrar's Office is refusing to take any planning action to implement the program until the money is received. Additional and continuous pressure must be exerted on the City, and on the Registrar's Office in particular, to set up the necessary machinery now. The money for the program is expected June 1, 1975. The Registrar must then be ready to go into immediate operation, and should not be allowed to cause further delays for "planning" which could be done now. The Registrar should be urged to begin training classes for deputy registrars now. Interested Hill residents who would like to be deputy registrars are urged to contact Jake Carter at the Neighborhood House, 953 DeHaro Street, 826-8080.

Help Design the Coast Plan

The California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission has scheduled formal public hearings on its newly completed Preliminary Coastal Plan. This state agency was created by the voters with the passage of Proposition 20, "The Save the Coast Initiative," in 1972. The Commission's primary duty is to design a plan for our coast.

Now is the time for the public to have its say. Individuals are encouraged to speak about their own suggestions for the California coastline. All comments will be compiled so that they may be included in the revised plan. The plan will then go to the California Legislature for approval.

These will be the last and only hearings in which the public may participate.

Formal hearing date for San Francisco is May 22 at 7 PM in the Supervisors' Chambers in City Hall at Polk and McAllister Streets, San Francisco.

The P.L.A.N. Alternative

PURPOSE & PHILOSOPHY OF DESIGN: To utilize a valuable open space resource through a limited development plan that is responsive to the needs of the community and city providing for (1) facilities for community (neighborhood, school, library, etc.) art shows, musical and dramatic presentations, and nature education programs; and (2) needed recreation and open space.

PLAN ELEMENTS: The plan's main and unifying element is a botanic park composed of five representative California ecological communities. The Hill's warm climate provides a unique environment for nature study not found at existing city facilities, and thus these communities would serve as outdoor classrooms for organized groups and the residents from throughout the City. In recognition of the community's needs and the site's physical characteristics, the plan also provides facilities for community plays, art shows, gardening, picnicking, viewing of the City and Bay, and children's recreation. The elements are depicted on the attached plan.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Neighborhood Odors

Dear Editor:

I write to ask my neighbors on the northwest side of the Hill to help rid our area of the nauseating odors emanating from the Best Foods plant at 18th and Bryant.

According to the people at the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, all that's necessary for them to take action, based on the state anti-nuisance laws, is the receipt of a dozen or more complaints from people willing to testify, if necessary, about the conditions.

So if you're tired of inhaling the rancid odors (I understand the cause is burned vegetable oil) that permeate our neighborhood just about whenever a breeze blows in from the ocean, let the APCD (Air Pollution Control District) know you want them to get moving. Write to Hulan Brinkley, Director of Enforcement, Bay Area APCD, 939 Ellis Street, San Francisco 94109, or call your complaint: 771-6000. Describe the smell as best you can, how often and under what conditions you smell it and, most important, say that you will testify, if needed. It is not necessary that you have personal knowledge as to where the pollution is coming from. That's for the APCD to verify. I would also ask that you send me a copy of your letter or just give me a call so that we can keep track of the number of complaints and keep after the APCD.

Since different parts of the Hill have their own odor(s) to contend with, I hope that the procedure outlined above will prove helpful to all. Let's get moving to get the smells out of Potrero Hill, once and for all.

Community Garden

Dear Ed.

A school and community terraced garden is getting underway next to the south wall of Starr King School. All interested neighbors are invited to participate and share in our produce. A clean, enclosed method of composting will be introduced soon which provides a rich, organic fertilizer in 14-21 days. We'd like the interests if participants to determine what is planted. Space is now being prepared for vegetables, herbs and flowers.

The success of our garden will depend in part upon the energy it attracts. I'm gathering 4'X4" posts for fencing and would like ideas and contributions on how to span these uprights. Suggestions so far have included stringing together old tires and weaving a net of recycled wire (a wall for climbing plants which school children could do as an arts and crafts project, perhaps), as well as traditional things like chicken wire, old wood, needs to be saved to reinforce terraces, 1" X 4" wide boards in various lengths, and old galvanized pipe will be useful to this end. A greenhouse in town is now being used to start seedlings for this and other community gardens.

If you are interested in this project, please call me, Mike Corbin, at 285-4379.

Dogpatch News Mental Health Workshops

A BIKE AWARENESS DAY has been set for May 18, at 12 noon, at 22nd & Indiana Streets. The object of this special day of races for youths between the ages of 8 to 18 is to stress safety in the streets both for bikers, and an awareness on the part of drivers for the young people who bike in the community daily.

Because of the development of the new Muni maintenance and repair facilities between 22nd and 23rd Streets and Indiana and Tennessee Streets, a resultant higher flow of people and vehicles, as well as buses, the community has an added need to be alerted to traffic hazards.

Curtis Green, General Manager of Muni Railway, will be a special guest at the activities.

Prizes will be awarded in the different age bracket races.

SCARE TEST

Last month, in cooperation with the Sickie Cell Anemia Research and Education agency (SCARE), the Dogpatch Youth Council held a testing program for residents of the community.

An estimated 70 people took advantage of the free, simple blood test to determine if there were any carriers of sickle cell, a disease indigenous only to Black people.

For those who have not been tested but wish to, call SCARE, 563-6040.

THE DOGPATCH ADULT ASSOCIATION meets every other Monday, 7:30 PM at St. Stephen's Church, 800-22nd St. All parents of the community are invited to attend and participate.

DOGPATCH YOUTH

This group of junior high school youth meets every Wednesday, 6 PM at St. Stephen's Church.

The Dogpatch Youth Council meets Mondays, 6 PM, St. Stephen's Church. Currently the Youth Council's fund-raising project is collecting cans for recycling.

Kudos to Plays: Short, Sweet, Hilarious

by Dale Walkonen

The Julian Theatre's production of "Calm Down Mother" and "Keep Tightly Closed in a Cool, Dark Place" as directed by Richard Rekow, perfectly captures two already wonderful plays by Megan Terry. Short, sweet, and hilariously, sometimes alarmingly to the point, from the opening sequence, "I'm Margaret Fuller, a living mind, and I accept the Universe," we are taken up in a flash flood of human poses and traps that never let go of us.

The set and costuming are very simple, with lighting and occasional music providing all necessary distraction. In both plays, the three characters are well blended, cast to take in a good range of the human scale. Each actor switches among many roles, sometimes signaling a complete metamorphosis with only a curl of the lip, a glance of the eye.

The first play artfully explores women's traps and trips, with Brenda Reineccius, Alma Becker and Nancy Morrison leading nicely up to a look at three major ways of women's living: Constant tailspins, never turning into discontent, never turning into action; repression of the desire to live the "man" inside, to lash out, to hit; and of course, talk, listing all the facts of one's life with the conviction that someone is listening.

The second play is about men. Men in relation to militarism, to other men, to their wives, to their children. It is significantly set in prison. In contrast to the talking, suffering women, the men choose parts in a conspiracy against women, against revealing weakness, against their own individuality. Their suffering is relieved sometimes, sexually, and occasionally in a sobbing fit, but generally it is not brought to the surface, because it is the male myth that makes up the surface and to speak of it is a kind of treason.

Lewis Brown and Michael August are excellent as men "conning" each other (through myriad characters) into male games from dying devotion to Elizabeth, the queen and her Naveey, to reverence for guns, to a pervasive belief in General Custer. Jerry Nova plays many of the more allegorical parts. His contrast and involvement with the others gives more dimension to the male side of this coin.

The plays, of course, are not separate: they are a look into the two battlecamps, where men try to be men, and women find that they are women. Megan Terry's question is, why, when everyone seems to be suffering in her and his part, don't we do something to change it?

The plays will run through May 10, at 953 De Haro Street, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. Showtime is 8:30 p.m. Donation $2.00

Youth Festival in G.G. Park

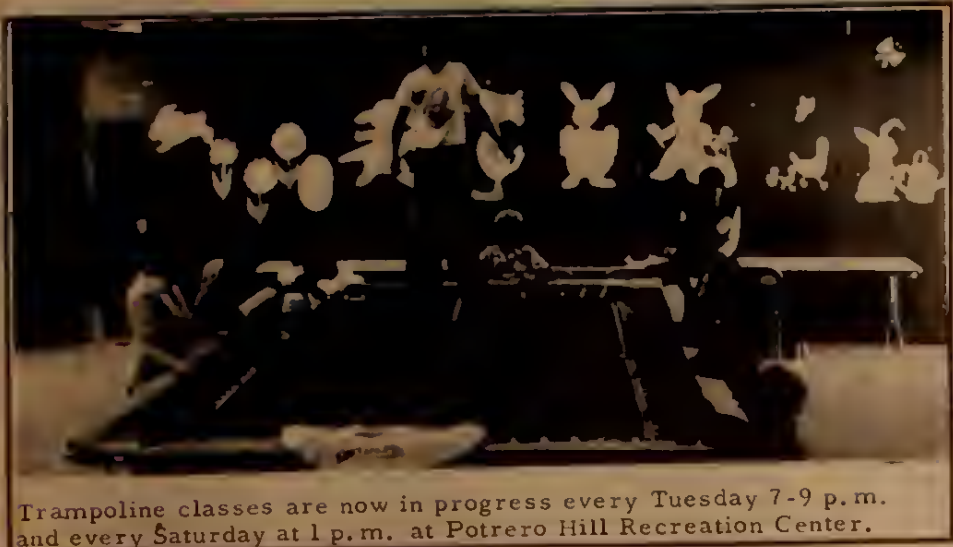

An estimated 3000 San Francisco school children and youth will pack the Band Concourse in Golden Gate Park with five days of Music, Art, Dance, Drama and Science for the Third Annual MADDs Festival, May 7 through 11, from 10 AM to 6 PM each day.

Students will participate from about 200 public, private, parochial and independent schools, plus many city art institutions and organizations. MADDs is a cooperative effort by the San Francisco Unified School District, the San Francisco Art Commission's Neighborhood Arts Program, the Alvarado School Art Workshop, the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco and many others.

Two of the many special projects to be offered by local organizations will be a tournament of boffing with styrofoam swords and other creative sports set up by the New Games Foundation, and the telling of stories about rainbow myths from many cultures by the Story Tellers Union of San Francisco State University.
